Subject: TSA Press Release – Summer Travel Season

The TSA issued a Press Release today (attached) reminding passengers traveling to be prepared and plan ahead for security since passenger preparedness can have significant impact on wait times at the checkpoint.

“TSA works closely each year with our partners in the air travel industry to effectively manage high summer travel volumes. We are fully staffed and prepared to handle the greater volume of passengers this year,” said Kip Hawley TSA administrator. “Travelers can control the length of their own wait time by being prepared when they reach the security checkpoint.”

To eliminate travel security problems, all passengers should carefully review the TSA guidance.
